POST OPERATIVE & RECOVERY DIET

Your vet has suggested that your pet may benefit from a diet, to help support their recovery – here is how can diet help?

If your pet is feeling unwell they are not going to feel like eating – but right now they have a need for nutrients to support their recovery.

Recovery diets are made with highly digestible ingredients and with increased calories, protein and fat so even if they eat less they still get the nutrients they need.

They also have high levels of omega-3 from fish and added beta-glucans for immune support.

Zinc and beta-glucans in the diet also support wound healing.
