BLADDER STONES & URINARY CRYSTALS DIETS

Your vet has suggested that your pet may benefit from a diet, to help manage their bladder stones/urinary crystals – here is how diet can help.

These diets help in a number of ways

Firstly, they lower the mineral and protein waste in the urine. This reduces the amount of material to make crystals.

Secondly, they change the acidity of the urine. This helps dissolve some stones and prevents other stones from forming.

Some diets also encouraging drinking. This increases urination, which helps flush out the mineral and protein waste.

Lastly, they provide high levels of omega-3 from fish to support the body's natural anti-inflammatory processes which can be helpful in cats with inflammation of the bladder wall.
