SKIN SUPPORTING DIETS

Your vet has suggested that your pet may benefit from a diet, to help manage their skin conditions – here is how diet can help.

The main feature in these diets is a high content of fish oil and other skin supporting nutrients, such as zinc, vitamin A and B-complex. These nutrients support a healthy skin, maintaining its barrier-function, helping retain moisture and provide defence against infections and allergens from the environment.

Omega-3 fatty acids EPA and DHA from fish also support the natural anti-inflammatory process, helping relieve the scratching

Allergen Management Plus diets not only contain high levels of omega-3 fatty acids and skin-supportive ingredients, but are also based on hydrolysed salmon protein and rice and so are suitable for pets with skin problems caused by of combination of food allergy and other allergies.
