KIDNEY SUPPORT DIETS

Your vet has suggested that your pet may benefit from a diet, to help manage their kidney condition – here is how diet can help.

Part of the function of the kidneys is moving protein waste and excess minerals into the urine. These diets have lower protein levels, to reduce workload on the kidneys, but have high quality, highly digestible fish protein to ensure an adequate supply of nutrients even with reduced protein levels

The high levels of omega-3 from fish also help support kidney function.

These diets have a restricted phosphorus content – helping to keep a normal blood phosphorus level and to maintain the remaining kidney function.
