DIGESTIVE SUPPORT DIETS

Your vet has suggested that your pet may benefit from a diet, to help manage their digestive upset – how can diet help?

Whatever the cause of the problem, their digestive system is not working properly, making it harder for your pet to get the nutrients they need.

These diets are made with high digestible ingredients such as fish, egg powder, rice and maize, so pets with digestive problems still get the nutrients they need even with a digestive system that is not working properly.

Higher levels of vitamins and minerals and electrolytes, including to compensate for the losses through diarrhoea and vomiting.

These diets also contain postbiotics and AuraGuard, ingredients that support gut barrier integrity, helping prevent damage to the gut wall and restore a balanced microbiome
